

GREATER PITTSBURGH UPHELD BY COURT

The Greater Pittsburgh law was today declared constitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States.

Justice Moody, announcing the opinion, said that it was hard to answer the argument that the law uniting Pittsburgh and Allegheny violated a contract arising out of the relations of the citizens of Allegheny, in any other way than to say "It isn't true." If property had been taken without due process of law, he said, the citizens must charge the loss to the legislators alone.

CLOSE TO MENTAL OBLIVION. CONDITION OF MRS. BRADLEY

(Continued from First Page.)

Q.—Did she tell you what troubled her at that time and did you make an examination of her, if so, what did that examination disclose?

A.—It disclosed that she had lost the truth. That she was suffering from the effects of a premature birth.

Described Her Condition.

Dr. Whitney then described Mrs. Bradley's condition in detail, stating that she had been for two weeks, that she had slight blood poisoning at the time and some fever.

Q.—When did you next treat Mrs. Bradley and for what purpose?

A.—On August 4, 1907, she came to my office at 11 o'clock in the morning. She was suffering from the same complaint. I arranged for her to go to a hospital that afternoon. She remained there until September 10.

Dr. Whitney said that Mrs. Bradley had remained at the hospital several days before her illness became acute.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Q.—What was the treatment given to her on this occasion?

A.—I gave her a course of treatment.

Important Witness For Bradley Defense

DR. E. W. WHITNEY,
One of Leading Witnesses in the Defense of Mrs. Annie M. Bradley.

The purpose of killing Brown, and she said "No."

"I asked her next if she had any friends, and she said: 'No, what right have I to have friends. How can I expect anyone to be a friend of mine. I am an outcast. I have no one to help me, I have no right to ask anyone to help me.'"

Her Statements Rambling.

The witness said that Mrs. Bradley did not respond to a number of questions and that he with difficulty persuaded her to talk of any one subject long.

He detailed her rambling statements, but said that he was unable to say whether she was sane or insane.

Pressed upon the cross-examination he described her actions as unnatural.

Q.—Did you publish at that time in the Washington Times a story of what she had told you, asked Mr. Baker.

A.—I did.

Q.—And did you not publish a connected story, although you say she talked disconnectedly.

A.—Yes, it was my business to put her story connectedly.

Q.—Did it occur to you at that time that you were publishing the story of an insane person?

A.—I had a suspicion at the time that she was insane.

Mr. Had Corroborated.

Charles A. Cottrell was another newspaper man called. He said that he had seen Mrs. Bradley twice on the evening of the tragedy, once at 6:15 and once about 9:30. He described Mrs. Bradley's actions very much as did Mr. Hay, saying that she walked the floor, appeared restless, and rolled her eyes, throwing her head in different directions. He said that she appeared listless in answering questions at times.

"She appeared frail, haggard, and the purpose of killing Brown, and she said "No."

"I asked her next if she had any friends, and she said: 'No, what right have I to have friends. How can I expect anyone to be a friend of mine. I am an outcast. I have no one to help me, I have no right to ask anyone to help me.'"

Long Pauses and Slow Talk.

Questioned as to Mrs. Bradley's appearance and manner Mr. Cottrell said that her answers when made were lucid and frank, but that she frequently paused a long time and answered slowly, leaning heavily upon a chair during the time.

Q.—What about the expression in her eyes?

A.—Her eyes seemed to have a vacant stare in them. (Witness illustrated her wild look.)

The witness identified a memorandum made at the time, and refreshed his mind concerning certain details of the interview. On cross-examination the witness said that during his visit news was phoned from the hospital that former Senator Brown was better, and that Mrs. Bradley said:

"I am very glad to hear that. He said she also continued, in substance: 'I have a horror of this kind of thing, but in this instance it was justified.'"

She also said that former Senator Brown had been the cause of her getting her divorce.

Q.—Did you have any opinion at that time whether she was sane or insane?

A.—I did not.

Q.—What is your opinion now, based upon what you saw there on your two visits and what you have just related, as to whether she was sane or insane?

A.—I did not think her insane. She was in a frightful state of mind, though.

The witness clung to this statement on the re-cross-examination, although stating that he formed no opinion in regard to the matter at the time.

Mr. Cottrell was handed several memorandum sheets made at the time and asked to read their contents, which were in shorthand, and he interpreted his notes as follows:

"She said that Brown had been the cause of the divorce between herself and husband and now that Brown's wife had died he could do the right thing by her, which he did positively refused to do."

Another Newspaper Man.

Louis A. McMahon, another newspaper man, was called next and told of having endeavored to talk to Mrs. Bradley while she was being carried from the Raleigh to the police station. He said that at the time she was "running her fingers through her hair as he crossed the street, and had her end buried upon her chest."

Q.—What else did you note?

A.—Her eyes appeared to be misty, and the pupils dilated when I saw her at the station, and she would first look up at the ceiling and then down. Witness said that she was nervously biting a spoon against a cup which she held, and moving chairs back and forth.

Q.—What conversation did you have with her?

A.—I asked her a number of questions. I asked her if she realized what she had done, and that she might have to pay the penalty. She looked up at the ceiling about thirty seconds and did not answer. I asked if she had come East to kill Mr. Brown, and she said "No, no, no."

was in a frightful state of mind, though.

The witness clung to this statement on the re-cross-examination, although stating that he formed no opinion in regard to the matter at the time.

Mr. Cottrell was handed several memorandum sheets made at the time and asked to read their contents, which were in shorthand, and he interpreted his notes as follows:

"She said that Brown had been the cause of the divorce between herself and husband and now that Brown's wife had died he could do the right thing by her, which he did positively refused to do."

Another Newspaper Man.

Louis A. McMahon, another newspaper man, was called next and told of having endeavored to talk to Mrs. Bradley while she was being carried from the Raleigh to the police station. He said that at the time she was "running her fingers through her hair as he crossed the street, and had her end buried upon her chest."

Q.—What else did you note?

A.—Her eyes appeared to be misty, and the pupils dilated when I saw her at the station, and she would first look up at the ceiling and then down. Witness said that she was nervously biting a spoon against a cup which she held, and moving chairs back and forth.

Q.—What conversation did you have with her?

A.—I asked her a number of questions. I asked her if she realized what she had done, and that she might have to pay the penalty. She looked up at the ceiling about thirty seconds and did not answer. I asked if she had come East to kill Mr. Brown, and she said "No, no, no."

"Brain Shaken at Base."

Q.—From your observations and your conversation with her, would you say that she was sane or insane at that time?

A.—To me she appeared to be a person whose brain had been shaken at its base.

This answer being objected to the witness framed it as follows:

"My opinion was that she was a nervous, unstrung person on the brink of mental and physical collapse, and that a puff of wind would blow her into mental oblivion."

There was a stir of excitement in the room as this answer was finished, causing the bailiff to rap loudly for order. Witness said further that his impression was that she was a woman who had just passed through some trying ordeal and that any further shock would cause her to rave.

Q.—But McMahon said also that on first seeing Mrs. Bradley she said to the newspaper men:

"Gentlemen, I am a newspaper woman. I know how eager you all are to get all the news, but all that I can say is that in so far as a person could be justified for what I have done I was justified."

Sergeant Lohman, who had been on the stand twice before for the prosecution, was called by the defense. He said that Mrs. Bradley's conversation at the station was rambling.

Q.—Did she say it was her intention to kill Senator Brown?

A.—No, she said, "God knows I did not intend to kill him. I love the very ground he walked on. I simply wanted him to give my children his name."

I asked her if Brown, was her husband, and she said, "No. That is the trouble. I have begged him many times to marry me, but he refused."

On cross-examination, Lohman said despite Mrs. Bradley's rambling statements he could not say that she was insane. His impression was that she was sane.

Officer Emmert told of his conversation with Mrs. Bradley. He said she had a stare in her eyes, was nervous, and evidently deeply troubled. On cross-examination, however, he said that his opinion was that she was sane. He added, however, that this opinion had been formed subsequent to the time he first talked with her.

Dr. D. K. Shute, physician at the jail, testified that Mrs. Bradley was in a weakened condition at the time she was brought to the jail, and was given a tonic for many weeks. Noting that the tonics were doing her no good, Dr. Shute made an examination and later informed Mrs. Bradley that an operation was necessary.

Dr. H. L. Johnson testified that he performed the operation. He stated that it was necessary because of the criminal operations Mrs. Bradley had been subjected to before coming to Washington.

ALMOST FOOLED JUDGE, NEGRO GETS MAXIMUM

Walter West, a colored youth of eighteen years, will probably tell the truth the next time he appears before Judge Kimball.

Walter appeared before his honor this morning charged with stealing a bicycle valued at $15 from Fred S. Bullard. The boy had practically convinced the judge that he had purchased the wheel three years ago when Bullard proved he owned the machine. His honor imposed the limit—$100 fine or nine months.

VITAL RECORDS

Births.

Charles L. Woodard and Mary E. Woodard, boy.
Emily E. and Emma E. Roberts, girl.
John L. and Rosa Humphrey, boy.
Joseph and Ernesta Pasquall, boy.
John E. and Jessie V. Phillips, boy.
Arthur and May Minnick, girl.
Mels and Ella J. Knutson, girl.
James T. and Mary A. Hancy, boy.
William W. and Edna H. Clardige, girl.
Brady M. and Mary T. Artley, girl.
Chinamese and Mayme Bing, girl.

Marriage Licenses.

James F. Hilton to Frances V. Bell.
Morris F. Husband, Glen Echo, Md., to Bertha Perry, Cumberland, Md.
Arthur L. Kitchen to Nellie A. Rice.
Ernest J. Barjarow to Fannie Allen.
Richard H. Ashby to Lucy E. Holmes.
M. Page Smith to Carrie E. Robinson.

Deaths.

Samuel Woolley, 75 years, Government Hospital for Insane.
Marion P. Fries, 25 years, 110 Fourth street southeast.
Thomas D. Allen, 72 years, 1716 Wisconsin street northwest.
Margorie L. Harper, 2 years, 718 Twenty-fourth street northwest.
Annie Cogan, 87 years, 1408 V street northwest.
Hezekiah Taylor, 68 years, 1240 Girard street northwest.
Benjamin P. Davis, 75 years, 1503 Irving street northwest.
Patrick W. Cady, 64 years, 1129 Twenty-third street northwest.
Anthony McNally, 74 years, Providence Hospital.
Georgia Demerec, 28 years, 654 Callan street northwest.
Julia W. Fracker, 80 years, 1740 Eighteenth street northwest.
Infant of Carrie and Harry J. Steiner, 6 days, 2235 Thirtieth street northwest.
Thomas Whalley, 32 years, steel plant, Giesboro plant.
Mary A. Beyer, 72 years, Bellevue, D.C.
James J. Sullivan, 25 years, 306 C street northwest.
Louise Dahler, 69 years, 235 New Jersey avenue.

TO QUICKLY CURE A COUGH OR COLD

A never failing home remedy for coughs and colds is made from the following formula to be mixed at home:

"Two ounces of glycerine, one-half ounce of Concentrated oil of pine, one-half pint of good whiskey, mix and shake thoroughly; use in doses of a teaspoonful to a tablespoonful every four hours."

If it follows a cold, will cure any cough that is curable or break up an acute cold in twenty-four hours. The ingredients all can be gotten at any drug store. Concentrated oil of pine comes put up for medicinal use only in half ounce vials and in small tin cans of screw-top design to protect it from heat and light. The bulk oils and the patent medicine imitations sometimes put up in wooden boxes should be avoided as they contain resin and other impurities that produce nausea and permanent kidney trouble. To get the right article be sure it is the "Concentrated" oil of pine as this is really the only soluble pine preparation known to science and is the result of the experiments made in the pine forests of Maine where camps were established for the treatment of throat and lung diseases and where so many remarkable cures were effected.

ERMOLD—On Sunday, November 17, 1907, at his residence, 1247 E street southeast, WILHELMINA C., widow of Ernest Ermold, died.

Mrs. Ermold was born in Bittenburg, Germany, sixty-eight years ago. Shortly after her marriage she and her husband came to Washington. Since the death of her husband she made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Jacob C. Miller. Bright's disease was the immediate cause of her death. She is survived by seven children and two grandchildren.

DAZED GIRL CONSCIOUS AFTER THIRTY-TWO DAYS

BOSTON, Nov. 18.—A number of prominent physicians today are investigating the case of Miss Mary E. Anthony, who has suddenly regained her faculties after lying for thirty-two days in a state of coma following an automobile accident. The girl was struck by a motor car October 16 and all the efforts to revive her proved fruitless. She was given nourishment through a rubber tube, however, and to this fact the doctors ascribe her survival. While the nurse was feeding her yesterday she suddenly opened her eyes and asked: "Where am I? Who are you?" It is believed she will soon recover.

NEW ROW OF HOUSES FINISHED BY WARDMAN

Stone & Fairfax today announced the completion of a row of seven houses on Columbia Heights, which have been under construction by Harry Wardman. The houses are located just north of Park road. The first house is at Fourteenth and Quincy streets.

Died.

SAUR—Suddenly, on Sunday, November 17, 1907, at his residence, 709 H street northwest, HENRY L. SAUR, the beloved son of Charles L. and the late George Saur, in the twenty-third year of his age.

Funeral services are invited to attend the funeral from his late residence, on Wednesday, November 20, at 3 p. m. in the funeral home of Harry Wardman, 1117 North Capitol street, N. W.

GLASS—At midnight on Saturday, November 16, 1907, ANDREW GLASS, aged seventy-four years.

Funeral services at late residence, 1177 Fairmont street northwest, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial at Glenwood.

GLASS—A special communication of Lebanon Lodge, No. 2, F. & A. M., will be held Tuesday, November 19, at 1:30 p. m. for the purpose of attending the funeral of ANDREW GLASS, M. M. Members of other lodges are invited to be present. By order of the Master, W. W. LUDLOW, Secretary.

SANFORD—On November 17, 1907, LUCIUS C. SANFORD.

Funeral from his late residence, 802 G street southwest, at 2 o'clock, November 19, 1907. Friends and relatives respectfully invited to attend.

MILVEEN—On Sunday, November 17, 1907, SAMUEL MILVEEN, aged fifty years.

Mrs. Milveen was born in Ireland and came to this country with her parents at an early age. Of late years she had been engaged as the traveling representative of a publishing house. She leaves a wife, Mrs. Mabel Milveen, and two daughters, Frances and Royal Milveen.

HAMMERLEY—On Sunday, November 17, 1907, at his residence, 1247 E street southeast, CATHERINE HAMMERLEY, 57.

Body is at the chapel of J. William Lee, 131 Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

Miss Catherine Hammerley was the last of three daughters of the late Edward Hammerley, for half a century one of Washington's prominent business men, engaged in the manufacture of confections in South Washington. She was sixty years old and a native of this city. She was a member of the Church of the Immaculate Conception. David Hammerley, engaged in business in this city, is the only survivor of the family.

ERMOLD—On Sunday, November 17, 1907, at 6 a. m., at her residence, 1247 E street southeast, WILHELMINA C., widow of Ernest Ermold, died.

Mrs. Ermold was born in Bittenburg, Germany, sixty-eight years ago. Shortly after her marriage she and her husband came to Washington. Since the death of her husband she made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Jacob C. Miller. Bright's disease was the immediate cause of her death. She is survived by seven children and two grandchildren.

UNDERTAKERS.

J. WILLIAM LEE,
UNDERTAKER AND LIVERY,
131 Pl. Ave. N. W., Washington, D. C.
Telephone Main 1335.

FUNERAL DESIGNS.

FUNERAL DESIGNS
of every description—moderately priced.
GUDE,

"THE STORE THAT SAVES YOU MONEY"

Open Till 9 P. M. Saturdays

Furniture Bargains

You don't have to pay cash in order to profit by the bargain prices we quote on dependable Furniture. Have your purchases charged—SETTLE A LITTLE AT A TIME.

This $18.50 China Case

$11.95

A decidedly handsome Quartered Oak China Case, carved top; bent glass ends; double thick straight glass door; shaped legs; an $18.50 value; special underselling price—

$11.95

This $38 Sideboard For $23.75

One of the handsomest Sideboards in this big stock. Highly polished quartered oak; carved top; heavy French plate mirror; deep drawers and large closets; $38 value; special underselling price—

$23.75

HUB FURNITURE CO. Southeast Corner 7th and D Streets

CREDIT IS YOUR PURSE

"Wonder What Mertz Will Say Today?"

Store closes daily at 6 p. m. Saturdays at 9 p. m.

At the Sign of the Moon.

A BIG SNAP

Mertz offers you the choice of ten new styles in fine all-wool fabrics and will build a suit or an Overcoat to your measure—fit guaranteed—for $8.40

See Window Display

Mertz and Mertz Co.
906 F STREET

Special Notices.

EXPERT BOOK BINDERS
—You can rely on getting faultless work when you have Bookbinding done here. Charges moderate. Hodge's Big Bookbinding, 426-23 11th; next Star.

STOP AT GOODACRE'S DAIRY LUNCH
ON YOUR WAY TO THE RACES.
9th and New York Ave.
OPEN ALL NIGHT.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: I hereby give notice that from and after this date I will not be responsible for any debts contracted by my wife, Lottie Cave, or by anyone on her account. GILBERT W. CA